"Moki Knife" pays careful attention to the material of the handles and produces attractive knives one at a time. "Moki

Knife" uses various well-selected natural materials for knife handle inlays, such as the shell from white and black M.O.P. abalone harvested by divers from the bottom of the South Pacific, and Lignum-vitae known as the "tree of life" for some limited models. All products are made with care and with fine attention to detail. Moki knives are made with the finest materials and stubborn devotion to quality.
