Pure Komachi 2 Series.

Vibrant monochromatic colors make the Pure Komachi 2 Series a striking addition to your kitchen; but these deceptively playful colors serve a no-nonsense purpose. The high-carbon SUS420J2 stainless steel blade provides a razor-sharp edge, while the color-coding makes it easy to choose the right knife for the job. The variety of colors help guard against cross-contamination of your food, making it easy to remember which blade you used on your meat and which knife was for vegetables. The bold blade color is achieved by bonding liquid coating to stainless steel blades for friction reducing. This food-safe coating resists corrosion, makes cleaning simple and helps the knife glide through food with ease. The Pure Komachi 2 color-matched lonomer-resin handles are lightweight and contoured for a comfortable, remarkably nimble performance. Incredibly sharp and distinctly attention-getting, Pure Komachi 2 knives make a delightful addition to any kitchen. Hang packaged.

Füri®

Rachael Ray™ Gusto-Grip™ Basics Series.

Made from the finest CrMoV stainless steel for the ideal combination of edge retention, ease of sharpening and corrosion resistance. Hardened to HRC 56. Forged bolster, one-piece with blade, and strong tang for supreme strength. The handle core is made from ultra-tough molded polypropylene, with an injection-molded outer layer of durable synthetic rubber to provide Rachael Ray's "super duper" grip. The patented "reverse wedge" handle shape actively resists forward hand slip, helping to reduce fatigue by requiring less squeezing than traditional handle shapes, even with wet or oily hands. The harder you cut, the more the handle of the knife locks into your hand, making it safer and easier to control. The Gusto-Grip™ handle design has a tailor-made finger groove with palm control grip. Füri Guard™ antimicrobial technology is incorporated directly and permanently into the Gusto-Grip® handle during the manufacturing process, giving the handle an added safeguard against microorganisms that can degrade the handle materials over time. Rachael Ray products are not recommended for the dishwasher. Simply hand wash and towel dry after use.

Pro Series. These knives feature the protected Füri handle for comfort and grip, exceptional Japanese high-carbon stainless steel for edge retention and ease of sharpening and seamless one-piece construction for hygiene and durability. Antimicrobial Protection - Nothing is more hygienic than one-piece stainless steel. With no handle gaps or joints, there's nowhere for food particles and germs to hide - making the Füri Pro one of the easiest knives to clean. The Pro also has no plastic, wood or rivets that can fall apart over time. Instead, it has a durable seamless stainless steel construction with a blade that is strong, resistant to wear and tear and less likely to snap or chip. The smooth curves and clever design of the Pro knife makes the handle fit snugly into the contours of your hand. The vertical "microgrooves" and wedge shape of the handle have been engineered to prevent your hand from slipping, even when wet or oily. The harder you cut, the more the handle of the knife wedges into your hand, making it safer and easier to control.

VICTORINOX SWISS ARMY

"R.H. Forscher by Victorinox" Has a New Name - "Victorinox Swiss Army".

Victorinox Swiss Army is known the world over as the creator of the Original Swiss Army Knife. What many people don't know is that the company started out in 1884 as a kitchen cutlery workshop. By the time this fourth generation family-owned business delivered the first pocket knife to the Swiss Army, they'd been selling fine cutlery to professionals for years.

The name "Victorinox" had been a staple in European commercial cutlery for over 50 years at the time they were approached by New York's R.H. Forschner – known since 1855 as a builder of scales for butchers – to be their sole cutlery supplier. The two companies joined forces in 1937. The seven decades since have seen R.H. Forschner become North America's dominant professional brand.

In 2011, Victorinox Swiss Army decided to make the name on the doors of the factory in Switzerland – from which beautifully balanced, perfectly weighted, razor sharp tools began their journey to North America many years ago – the name that R.H. Forschner by Victorinox Cutlery is marketed under: Victorinox Swiss Army.

Despite the name change, knives manufactured by Victorinox remain the same award-winning kitchen tools they have always been under the Forschner name.

These knives have stainless blades and black Fibrox® handles. Packaged in plastic sleeve.

TWIN® Cermax 66.

TWIN Cermax cuts wafer-thin slices with precision. It doesn't matter whether it's fish, meat or vegetables, TWIN Cermax glides through all ingredients effortlessly and without destroying the cell structure. The unique sharpness and cutting properties have been made possible not only by the typical blade geometry of a Japanese knife but also by the sheer unbelievable blade hardness of 66 Rockwell. Thus, TWIN Cermax cuts three to four times sharper than other top quality knives. A special triple-layered blade structure (CLAD material) - a corrosion-resistant stainless steel on the outside and the core made of the ultra-tough MultiCarbide powder steel - guarantees long lasting sharpness. The outstanding ergonomics and perfect balance of the micarta handle allow for long lasting and tireless work. Boxed.

Live Action Role Playing, or LARPING, is an activity for all ages. And no piece of equipment is more important than the weapon you wield. Our Warlords line of latex weapons have a realistic look and finish and are some of the finest on the market. A hard rubber handle and real suede wrapping ensures both great balance and a firm grip for complete control. The tough layered foam, high quality latex, and the specially developed paint we utilize, have been researched for long lasting play and a non-cracking finish. Police-grade Kevlar, used in our sword tips, guarantees a non-tearing thrust. Though the fiber cores of our weapons are lightweight, they command the strength to withstand excessive pounds of stress. All of the chemicals and compounds used in our weapons have been proven OSHA safe. We invite you to BRING THE ADVENTURE HOME with weapons from the Warlords Collection by Windlass!
